THEY ARE FRIENDLY.

Mischievous politicians would have it appear that Blaine and the president are determined rivals and that in the event of the nomination of one the other will seek to encompass his defeat at the polls. The relations between the two men have not been as comfortable as they might have been. Goaded on by sharp newspaper criticism, what was at first a mere difference in opinion grew to be a breach so delicate in nature, under the circumstances, that both men appeared to be a disadvantage. Mr. Blaine appreciated that his position was a trying one. The enthusiasm of his friends in urging his nomination served to place him in a position where to retreat was cowardly and to advance was an act of ingratitude. Sensitive to reproach he could not but observe that the president was suddenly envious of his popularity, which he was powerless to check, and rather than continue a member of an official family in which by virtue of his office he was the most confidential adviser of his chief, subject to unmerited suspicion as to the rectitude of his conduct, he laid his resignation before him. The time might have been inopportune, but the motive was unselfish and patriotic. The president is not so unimpressionable but that the sinister work of the mischievous busy-bodies has its effect. He was besieged by his friends, who attributed sordid motives to the secretary of state, who in turn maintained a dignified silence against the calumny and aspersions of his enemies. The situation was like no other in the history of American politics. But the two distinguished men are neither enemies, nor are they vindictive rivals. Mr. Blaine unselfishly yielded his high and honorable office to free the president from embarrassment and himself from reproach. They are friends.

BALLOTS COUNT.

Commenting on the fact that ballots count, the Minneapolis Tribune, a staunch Harrison paper, says that New York voted against Blaine, giving Harrison a majority of over 40,000, and then turning about gave 40,000 majority against Mr. Fessett, the late republican candidate for governor, who represents the magnetic in politics. There is no judging the future but by the past. Indians left Mr. Blaine in the lurch by nearly 7,000, while the cold-blooded and unmagnetic Harrison captured it by a handsome majority. In Kansas, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Iowa, Ohio, Pennsylvania, California, Colorado, Nevada, Massachusetts, Oregon and New York Mr. Blaine's vote was 2,795,443, while Mr. Harrison's was 3,124,488. Michigan will be for Blaine and yet Harrison carried the state by 23,000, while Blaine only saved it by 3,308. Even Maine gave the president over 1,000 more votes than it did its favorite son, Mr. Blaine. Kansas gave him 16,000 more, Minnesota 30,000 more, Nebraska 32,000 more, Wisconsin 15,000 more, Iowa 14,000 more, Ohio 16,000 more, Pennsylvania 53,000 more, California 22,000 more, Colorado 14,000 more, Massachusetts 37,000 more, Oregon 8,000 more and New York 15,000 more. The Tribune argues in the face of all these figures that it will be suicidal to nominate Blaine. It forgets that when Blaine ran for the presidency the people were restless and uneasy for a change. The cry of reform and retrenchment was a potent one, and it was raised with vehemence all over the country. Cleveland had a prestige second to none in our political history. He rose from private life up to the highest office with startling rapidity, and so force could stay the progress of the "Man of Destiny." When Harrison ran the tariff issue was well defined. Any protectionist would have been elected. Almost any other protectionist would have received greater majorities. Today the democrats have no principles except traditions, no issues except the offices. Any republican can be elected.

UNCERTAINTY PREVAILS.

There is but little in the excited condition at Minneapolis to foreshadow the probable outcome of the convention. The statisticians have evolved several tables, presumably to show the relative strength of the two leading candidates, but they are untrustworthy. In so numerous a body it would be almost superhuman to obtain individual expressions of opinion that would represent the actual purposes of the delegates. It will require a ballot to clear away doubt and confusion. The first votes cast will be for Blaine if the Alabama contest be decided in favor of the regular delegates, which seems probable. Then Arkansas with a divided delegation will vote. The first state to vote will do so subject to such enthusiasm as may spring perfunctorily or spontaneously from the opposing factions. The only thing likely to create a furor and upset the equilibrium of either side will be an unexpected change in the vote of a state. If this shall take place a stampede may follow, and succeeding states may clamor over instructions and post their votes in favor of the hero of the hour. It is more than likely, however, that the ballot will proceed in an orderly manner from start to finish, and the result will be received as a decisive expression of preference. If it shall show that the president is preferred his nomination will be made unanimous without protest. If Mr. Blaine is the choice a like endorsement ought to be given, and doubtless will be. Today the preliminary meeting of the convention will be held, but there is likely to be no vote taken which will test the strength of the opposing forces.

PUBLIC FUNDS.

It appears according to Bradstreet's that the unexpended balance of public money in the hands of disbursing officers at present is almost as large as the cash balance of the treasury, including national bank deposits and subsidiary and minor coin. The amount so held by disbursing officers is regarded by Secretary Foster as largely exceeding the actual requirements of the service, and with a view of limiting the amount held to actual requirements, the secretary has instructed the disbursing officers to cover into the treasury immediately after the close of the current fiscal year all moneys advanced to them from appropriations pertaining to the service of the fiscal year 1891 and of prior years remaining unexpended at that date; to cover into the treasury at the close of the first quarter of the next fiscal year, and of each fiscal year thereafter, all unexpended balances of appropriations standing to their credit pertaining to the service of the fiscal year immediately preceding, except such amounts as may be needed to pay liquidated claims; to check, on and after July 1, 1892, against any balances standing to their official credit in payment of public debts without regard to appropriations, and, finally, to make requisitions for such funds only as may be necessary for the prompt fulfillment of public engagements, as the same may arise from month to month.

From a paper read before the American Academy of Medicine, now in session at Detroit, it appears that only one doctor in twenty is a college bred man. Yet there are people in the world who wonder why medicine does not progress more rapidly. If the public would refuse to employ a physician unless he was an educated, responsible graduate of some reputable medical college, there would be an astonishing decrease in the death rate.

ONE OF THE PLEASING INCIDENTS OF THE CONVENTION.

One of the pleasing incidents of the canvass now on is the thoroughly unprejudiced and patriotic attitude of the Detroit Tribune, whose strained and unnatural interpretation of Michigan sentiment in favor of General Alger has given rise to some doubts as to its fairness. It has thrown off all reserve now and is reflecting the better judgment of the leading republicans. This will win it generous commendation.

WEDNESDAY NIGHT THE D. K. E. SOCIETY OF YALE UNIVERSITY HELD ITS ANNUAL INITIATION.

As a result of the ceremonies William Rustin, one of the candidates, may die from peritonitis. As samples of criminal idiocy the initiation ceremonies of many Greek letter societies surpass even the student dueling system of Heidelberg.

REFORMED PRESBYTERIANS HAVE BEEN PLEDGED BY THEIR SYNOD NOT TO VISIT THE WORLD'S FAIR IF IT IS KEPT OPEN SUNDAY.

The most important thought about this is that the Reformed Presbyterians are not sufficient in number to do the fair any particular damage by staying away.

BEX.

If the Chicago convention shall adopt a platform reading "all other issues sink into insignificance before the overshadowing importance of Grover" it will hit the nail squarely on the head.

WON'T PAY IN FULL

The Electric Light Bill Will Be Reduced.

CITY CEMETERY ACCOUNTS

The Sewer Question Comes Before the Council, But No Action Is Taken.

General Routine Business.

A big grant of unimportant matters was submitted to the council last night. The Grand Rapids Electric Light & Power company submitted a communication criticizing the action of the committee on lamps in employing an expert to test the power of the lights. The report concluded with the statement that no reduction would be made in the bill; committee on lamps.

Clarence Cotton, James L. Maloney and others petitioned against the granting of a franchise to the Consolidated Street Railroad company for a line through Ottawa street. The reasons given were explicit and based on the fact that the noise of the traffic would interrupt court business; committee on ordinances.

Andrew Kolenbrander renewed his petition for damages for injuries received at the corner of Canal and East Leonard streets; committee on claims and accounts.

The annual report of the cemetery commission was accepted and placed on file.
